A SCULPTURAL, MIXED-MATERIALS TABLE AND THE DESIGN'S STRUCTURED SYMMETRY SPEAK TO A MODERN SENSIBILITY, WHILE WOVEN AND RIDGED TEXTURES TELL A RELAXED AND LIVABLE STORY.

FROM FOREST TO FINISHED MASTERPIECE

Many pieces of Ethan Allen wood furniture begin their journeys at our Beecher Falls, Vermont, sawmill, the place where our company began in 1932. We debark logs and cut them into squared pieces, and then we send them to our wood-drying kilns, removing moisture so the wood retains its shape and doesn't crack or split when we work with it.

QUALITY

When the wood is dry, some of it is matched and glued by hand to form the planked tops of our handcrafted tables. Some heads to the lathe to be transformed into sturdy carved table pedestals or the turned posts of a farmhouse-inspired bed. Into other pieces, we cut the pins and tails of our durable dovetail drawer joinery, steam-bend sleigh-bed headboards, or carve rosettes by hand.

Once your wood furniture is built, it's finished by hand, and each carefully applied layer of paint, stain, or varnish must pass an inspection. Before it heads to your home, it's tested for quality and to ensure it meets the highest safety standards.

Many of our most popular pieces are ready to ship within a couple of weeks; a custom-finished piece may take longer, but it's worth the wait. Either way, the name Ethan Allen has stood for quality for more than 89 years, a reputation built by the pride and the passion of our craftspeople.

CUSTOM-TAILORED UPHOLSTERY

Every piece of Ethan Allen upholstery is tailored by hand by people who know what they're doing and love what they do. The moment you place your order, they start working to bring your custom-tailored seating to life.

CRAFTSMANSHIP

We offer hundreds of fabric choices—bright colors, neutrals, stripes, florals, patterns—each of which is tested to meet the most rigorous standards in the industry. We test for colorfastness, seam integrity, abrasion, pilling, and more; many of our fabrics meet the same standards as those found in the world's finest hotels.

Our leathers are cut and color-blended by hand; no shortcuts like splits, bonded pieces, or vinyl matching. It can take as many as seven hides to upholster a leather sectional, and we cut and color-blend each one by hand.

Depending on the piece, you can customize your cushion fill for soft, medium, or firm support; add flourishes with details like nailhead trim, welting, or tufting; or choose custom, hand-applied finishes that make exposed wood extraordinary. To learn more about the hand-cut, hand-finished handiwork that goes into our custom upholstery, visit ethanallen.com/upholstery.

MEET OUR WORLD-CLASS DESIGNERS

At many furniture stores, you're greeted by a sales rep; at an Ethan Allen Design Center, you'll meet a professional interior designer. Our designers have backgrounds in design, fashion, and the arts; many attended top design schools and even owned their own design firms before joining Ethan Allen.

DESIGN SERVICE

They can handle projects of any size: kid-friendly family rooms, cozy couple's retreats, breathtaking formal dining rooms, and video-worthy home offices. They can even help you plan your outdoor spaces, from patio to poolside.

Once they have a sense of your needs, they can suggest furniture arrangements, offer fabric and leather options, and help you select furniture finishes. They can design custom window treatments and recommend accents, from the beautiful, like rugs and lighting, to the practical, like a handcrafted mattress.

Meet them in the Design Center to see our furniture, fabrics, and other custom options for yourself. Schedule a home call to have your space professionally measured. Book an online appointment to work from anywhere—no matter what you choose, our designers' time and talents are yours at no charge.

Need some inspiration for mixing fabric colors and patterns? Our designers have curated some combinations just for you—visit ethanallen.com/fabric-moodboards.

THE FUTURE OF DESIGN IS HERE

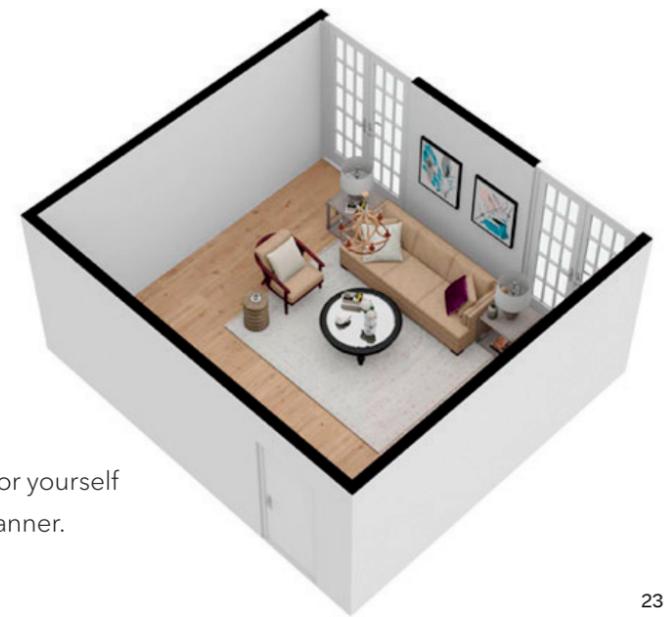

What if you could travel into the future with your interior designer to see what your finished space will look like? We haven't perfected time travel, but we can offer you the next best thing: our 3D Room Planner.

DESIGN TECHNOLOGY

We map out your space, customizing it with accurate measurements, fitting in doors, windows, and other architectural features. Then, we begin to lay it out in a way that makes traffic flow smoothly while creating a sense of harmony and balance. We add furniture, shown in our most popular fabrics and finishes, and finishing touches, like artwork and décor. Every pixel comes together to show a high-definition re-creation of what your new space will be.

Once your room is designed, we can show you a top-view 2D floor plan. We can show you 3D images of your proposed design. We can also send you a link to your finished space, so you can take a photorealistic 3D walkthrough.

If you're not feeling a fabric, we can show you new options with just a few taps; if you want to try a new rug, it's drag, drop, done. It's not a trip into the future, but it is a glimpse of what's possible—and it gives us the power to work with you anywhere.

Try our 3D Room Planner for yourself at ethanallen.com/roomplanner.

FOR THE HOME WE ALL SHARE

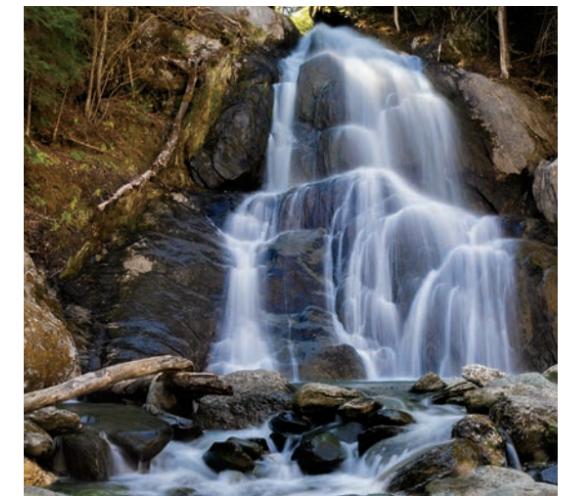

Making about 75% of our products in our North American workshops is definitely about quality—but it also ensures that every process is designed to preserve our planet for future generations.

SUSTAINABILITY

We source wood as close to our workshops as possible; about half comes from the Northeast near our Vermont workshops, with most of the rest coming from the southeastern U.S. nearer to our lumber inspection center in Old Fort, North Carolina. In our Vermont workshops, we use recycled biomass—chips and sawdust leftover from making furniture—to cogenerate electricity for our wood-drying kilns. For the rest, we prioritize power from renewable energy sources.

Our craftspeople use low-HAP and low-VOC finishes, helping to keep the air clean from our workshops to your home. When we transport our products, we rely on fuel-efficient technology as much as possible, and we route vehicles carefully to minimize the number of miles they drive.

When you invest in Ethan Allen furniture, you support our passion for cutting our carbon footprint, conserving natural resources, and leading the fight against climate change. For more details, visit ethanallen.com/gogreen.
