Stickley's Mission Story

When you think of American Arts and Crafts, you think of Stickley. Beginning in 1900, Gustav's revolutionary Mission furniture showed that every home deserves furniture that is solid and honest, that is made with uncompromising craftsmanship, and that satisfies a real need. Stickley's Mission pieces are among the most recognizable and cherished in the history of American design.

If Gustav Stickley was the advocate for Craftsmanship, it was his brother Leopold, the founder L. & J.G. Stickley, who embodied the ideal. For sixty years, Leopold Stickley's commitment to enduring construction techniques achieved for the company a reputation for elite craftsmanship—a reputation Stickley continues to uphold.

In 1974, years after Leopold Stickley's death, Alfred and Aminy Audi purchased a struggling L. & J.G. Stickley, knowing they were taking a risk. They also knew that by honoring Stickley's tireless dedication to craftsmanship, they could turn the company around. In reissuing the Mission collection in 1989, the Audis tapped into a nearly forgotten era of American furniture history and helped to shape a renaissance of Arts and Crafts.

Today, we continue to honor the Stickley brothers' commitment to honest craft and materials, meeting the ongoing demand for classic Mission while also evolving the look with modern collections like Park Slope. In upholstery, original Mission styles live alongside modern versions with updated cushions and the latest power motion technology. There is no end to the possibilities of Mission in today's homes.

 *Als Ik Kan—“to the best of my ability.”
This old Flemish craftsman's phrase has been the guiding principle of Stickley since 1900.*

Mission's Hardwoods

Oak

Quartersawn American white oak (quercus alba) produces boards of great strength, less likely to crack, check or warp than flat-sawn timber and ideal for crafting furniture that will last for generations. Quartersawing also reveals the ray flake, a highly prized tiger-stripe pattern running across the grain that makes each piece of furniture unique.

Cherry

American Black Cherry has a naturally broad spectrum of color and grain. At Stickley, craftsmen blend the shades and grain of cherry to create a balance on each piece, but variations will be visible. Like fine wine, cherry wood mellows and deepens in color with age, developing a rich patina over time. This natural phenomenon makes each piece of cherry furniture a unique work of art.

Curated design, time-honored craft
The qualities that set Stickley apart

Intelligent design - For 120 years, we've known how to make furniture beautiful while continually improving its quality and functionality.

Superior craftsmanship - Our time-tested techniques and gifted artisans guarantee every piece's strength and longevity.

Honest materials - Only the finest premium hardwoods, stone tops, hardware, and upholstery fabrics go into our product.

Hand-applied finishes - The clarity of our exclusive finishes allows the beauty of the wood's grain to shine through.

Sustainable manufacturing - Our woods are sourced from FSC-approved timberlands and used with minimal waste. And nothing is more sustainable than furniture built to last a lifetime.

Family-owned - From the Stickleys to the Audis, the company has remained in the hands of families committed to its excellence.

Community-driven - When you buy Stickley, you support a local business that actively gives back to the communities it operates in.
